Foreword

This is the first issue of Mentor-2018, Journal of Business Studies which is a unique journal, aiming at promoting systematic and scientific research of the theory and practice of Management, particularly Eastern Province of Sri Lanka. It provides a network for publication of academic writings based on library, survey, field, evaluation, experimental, and causal-comparative research, original thoughts and perspectives with regard to Management and Business Studies. This journal is expected to be published annually and it will be the journal of the Faculty of Commerce and Management, Eastern University, Sri Lanka.

Although it is mainly devoted to publish research studies done by the academics of Faculty of Commerce and Management and their undergraduates and postgraduates students it expects to publish research studies of good quality from both local and foreign academics and practitioners. The Journal welcomes original contributions not previously published in any local or foreign journal in specific areas of General Management, Commerce, Accounting and Finance, Enterprise Development, Human Resource Management, Marketing Management, Project Management, Technology Management, Production and Operation Management, Organizational Behaviour, Banking and Insurance and other related aspects of Management.

I believe in that this journal will be of importance to undergraduate, and postgraduate students, managers, administrators and junior academics as well as senior academics.

All communications are to be addressed to the Editor in Chief.
